Description

Overview

The Pin Punches are precision hand tools designed for driving, removing, and positioning pins, dowels, rivets, and other cylindrical fasteners during assembly, maintenance, and repair operations. Their long, slender design with a precision-ground tip allows controlled access to recessed areas and helps safely drive pins without damaging surrounding components.

Common Uses

The Banka Pin Punches are widely used for removing and installing pins, dowels, rivets, and cylindrical fasteners in machine components, fixtures, automotive parts, tools, and industrial assemblies during maintenance, repair, fitting, and assembly operations. They are essential hand tools for machine shops, automotive workshops, fabrication units, tool rooms, maintenance departments, educational institutes, and precision engineering facilities, where controlled impact, accurate pin removal, and reliable component servicing are essential for efficient workshop operations.
