Description

Overview

The Vibration Damping Pad is an industrial machine accessory designed to reduce vibration, shock, and transmitted noise between machinery and the supporting floor. It helps improve machine stability and provides a more secure foundation for lathes, milling machines, drilling machines, grinders, and other industrial equipment.

Common Uses

The Banka Vibration Damping Pad is widely used beneath lathes, milling machines, CNC machines, drilling machines, grinding machines, presses, and other industrial equipment to reduce vibration, shock, and noise transmission to the floor. It is an essential machine-installation accessory for machine shops, production workshops, tool rooms, manufacturing units, and precision engineering facilities, where machine stability, vibration reduction, improved machining accuracy, floor protection, and reliable long-term support are essential.
